SECTION 4.0: SPECIFICATIONS/SCOPE OF SERVICES

4.1. General/Background:

The Blue Heron Trail is a portion of the Colorado River Trail system that between Hwy 340 (Broadway) northwest to Redlands Parkway. A portion of the trail, approximately 150 feet in length, was lost during the runoff of 2019 and design of the replacement is needed. This section of trail has had a history over the last decade of being undermined as the river has migrated during minor flooding and high runoff seasons. The portion of trail is bounded closely on the southwest by the Colorado River, and the northeast by private properties zoned Light Industrial. Also running parallel to the trail on the northeast is a gas line which is at risk of being compromised if the bank is eroded farther.

The City desires, if possible, to rebuild, or reestablish some of the bank that was lost. This would include a sloping the bank to the water and moving the top of bank streamward as much as practicable. The bank slope shall include erosion protection. Ideally the proposed erosion protection will enhance the ecology and habitat along this segment both above water and subsurface, while avoiding creating opportunity for invasive species. This section of river is downstream of the 15-mile Reach, a critical river segment that is part of the Upper Colorado River Endangered Fish Recovery Program. However, this location is still within critical habitat for the four endangered fish species that are the focus of the recovery program. Reestablishment of a sloped bank must also protect the proposed repair of the Blue Heron trail, infrastructure and properties in the vicinity.

Therefore, the City of Grand Junction, Purchasing Department is requesting qualifications, accompanied by sealed cost proposals, from Consulting Civil Engineers to provide design services, prepare construction drawings, assist in development of bid documents, and receive USACE and any other regulatory approval, if applicable, for the Colorado Riverfront Trail, Blue Heron Section Reconstruction Project. The design project calls for the following:

- Identification of up to 3 replacement alternatives to be evaluated by the City and appropriate stakeholders (e.g. Urban Trails Committee, City Parks and Recreation, etc.). Alternatives shall be presented in a Preliminary Design (30%) Memorandum which includes horizontal and vertical alignment of the proposed replacement bike path, conceptual level reinforcement if required, bank and erosion control measures to prevent further degradation of the Colorado River bank, Engineers Estimate of Probable Cost, State and Federal Permitting requirements, potential constraints to construction schedule or other limiting factors,
- Assistance in alternative selection ...
- 90% Review set with standard and project specifications for review by City and stakeholders
- Preparation of construction plans and documents to be do be appended to Solicitation for Construction Documents published by the City through the REMEPS. Assistance with bidding services includes aiding the City PM in responding to questions and completing the addendum or addenda as part of the contractor selection process.

As a result, the City of Grand Junction is requesting proposals from qualified applicants to complete design, specifications, and permitting requirements for construction in winter of 2019/2020.
