The bulk of the area known as Dos Rios is owned by the City. Gary Schroen made a motion to approve the minutes from the June 3 meeting as amended. The motion was seconded by Lisa Whalen and carried unanimously.

Options for Capital Funding

City Manager Caton thanked the Board for their service and talked with the Board about their critical role in the success of the City as an organization. Mr. Caton recognized Councilor Pe'a's leadership and advocacy for Parks and Recreation in Council meetings. The Parks and Recreation Advisory Board will be an excellent source of guidance for spending the additional funding provided by the end of the moratorium on marijuana sales in City Limits, as approved by voters in April. Mr. Caton reminded the board that there are many passionate user groups who are already advocating for their particular area of interest.

Ken Sherbenou talked with the board about 5 options for utilizing the marijuana funding moving forward. Ken reminded the board that the marijuana tax is projected to bring in roughly $3M per year and there are $157M in projects identified in the PROS plan. The survey from that plan highlights a community center and trail connections as the top two priorities identified by the community.

Option A would be to cash fund projects. Each year projects would be identified to spend the money generated by the tax.

The rest of the options would require asking the voters to approve going into debt (backed by sales tax, but paid by the marijuana revenue) to fund larger projects.

Option B Fund the first phase of the community center construction and its operational subsidy. The first phase of the center would be about 80,000 square feet plus construction of additional parking spaces.

Option C is a parks and outdoor recreation focus. Using a bond to create a $25M project fund to fund park renovations (such as Columbine and the Botanic Gardens), and development of parks (such as Matchett, Horizon Park). This option would not fund construction of a community center.

Option D using debt, an additional question to the voters about implementing a tobacco and vaping tax and a small (.01%) sales tax increase which would combine to create a $92M project fund. These funds would allow for a full build out (109,000 square feet) of a community center and reserves funds for priority park projects (such as Matchett, expansion to the Colorado Riverfront Trail, and renovation of the Botanic Gardens).

Option E funds Phase one of a community center (80,000 square feet) and priority park projects.

Again, this would require debt, and voters approving an additional tax on tobacco and vaping to create a project fund of $79M.

Gary Schroen asked what kind of interest was available for debt of this kind. City Manager Caton advised the board that in 2020 the City secured bonds at 2.5% interest. The Stadium project is funded by Certificates of Participation (COP) which are backed by sales tax. Since federal regulation prohibits bonding on marijuana funding directly, the bonds would be backed by sales tax revenue and paid with marijuana funding. Bonding would need to be approved by voters. The window to get a bonding question on the ballot for November 2021 is very short. The next elections are in November of 2022 and April of 2023.

City Council is having a workshop discussion on July 19 to talk about a future community center. Board members wondered about gathering more information around a community center and its preferred location.

Cindy Enos-Martinez reminded the board that the community center was a driving factor in the master planning process and in asking for the use of marijuana revenues. She feels it's very important that a community center is included in whatever projects are funded moving forward. Lisa Whalen informed the board that for the neighborhoods around Matchett, and from a field sports perspective, seeing that park developed is important. Gary Schroen reminded the board that the community center was the most asked for and the most expensive project on the list. He informed the board that funding should be secured before 2023 to secure the lowest interest rate. Nancy Strippel wondered if the survey about the community center should be re-done. She's heard a lot of confusion about the location and now that Glacier Ice Arena has been bought and pledged to keep in operation as ice, that may not be an amenity that is important or appropriate in a community center. Bill Findlay indicated it would be important to have a clear idea of exactly what projects could be funded by each option.

Colorado West Land Trust Presentation

Bill Findlay introduced Libby Collins of the Colorado West Land Trust (CWLT). Libby talked with the Board about the partnership the City has with CWLT which began with the preservation of the Three Sisters. Since 2010 CWLT has preserved more than 2330 acres of open space areas in town. The most recent project allowed the completion of the Monument Trail corridor. CWLT helped fund trailhead improvements and shade shelters. The Colorado West Land Trust has built strong fundraising relationships throughout the valley and they are invested in providing access to the outdoors as an economic driver which promotes healthy lifestyles and builds community. Their next project is working on Phase 2 of the Monument Corridor. They are working on fundraising and other legal processes which would allow construction to begin as soon as 2023 (provided funding was in place).

2022 Proposed CIP List

Ken Sherbenou shared with the board a list of proposed Parks and Recreation capital improvement projects which have been identified by staff and a document with descriptions of each. Staff are looking for feedback about which projects are the highest priorities for board members as there are more projects on the list than are likely to be funded. The list also includes proposed projects for 2023 through 2025. Funding sources for the projects include the .75% sales tax (which is shared by all city departments) Lottery funds, and about half a year's worth of revenue from marijuana. Staff expects about $2M in funds available. There are $5.5M of projects on the list. Project costs can be offset by grant funding. The board will have a special meeting on Thursday, July 15 to consider these projects.

For the Good of the Community

Byron Wiehe talked with the Board about the 7th fairway at the Lincoln Park Golf Course. He is aware of an employee of the VA Hospital who had their car window broken two separate times in ten days by a golf ball. Byron wondered if there had been talk of netting to help protect the cars on the VA property. Ken Sherbenou reminded the board that the Lincoln Park Golf Course is managed by the General Services Department and he would share the concerns with their department Director.

Nancy Strippel talked with the Board about the timing of the Fourth of July Fireworks. It was unfortunate that the fireworks were shot off at 10:45 pm breaking the promise that had been made after Memorial Day to not shoot fireworks so late. Ken Sherbenou advised the Board that the City is holding listening sessions on July 20th at the Lincoln Park Barn to collect feedback around fireworks. And has put out a survey to gather further feedback related to fireworks. Additionally, the Grand Junction Rockies have already committed to starting their Fourth of July game earlier next year to hopefully prevent late fireworks even if the game runs more than 4 hours long as it did this year.
