REDLANDS 360°

PARK AND OPEN SPACE MASTER PLAN

MAY | 2023

In homage to the City of Grand Junction Three Sisters Park, the four prominent mesas that bisect the Redlands 360 site are referred to as “The Four Brothers”. They are the backbone of the Redlands 360 parks and open space master plan. Each of the Four Brothers and their unique personalities will connect the Redlands 360 community to the land it sits upon. See more in depth descriptions on the individual Brothers’ pages.

TRAIL SYSTEM

- Multi-use paved trail
- Soft surface improved trail
- Single track trail
- Trailhead
- Art feature
Art locations and quantity are subject to change
- Trail connection
Access to adjoining property trails
- Neighborhood Entrance

The open space between Brother 2 & 3 is bisected by the southwest to northeast running corridor that spans Redlands 360 from the top of the site to the planned community amenity at the northern end of the space. All trail corridors converge on this place. Trailheads anchor each end of the Brothers' open space at the main loop road. Redlands 360 also connects to adjacent property trails, including Colorado West Land Trust Conservation Easement and Bureau of Land Management properties.

- C Sunrise celebration element
- V1 View over Park 9 & Park 10

“Easter Hill”, or our “Sunrise Park” at the top of Brother 1, will tell the story and continue the historic tradition of sunrise services at the top of the hill. A semiformal gathering place designed to celebrate the sunrise will be included for reflection and other community and family events. Interpretive displays and signage will celebrate the history of this Brother, Redlands 360, and the surrounding community.

- B Geology walk & interpretive signage
- C Boulder scramble
- V1 View to Brother 1 & beyond
- V2 View to Brother 3 & beyond

“Earth”, will tell the story of the geology of the Redlands and surrounding mountain ranges. Interpretive displays with stone samples representative of the site and the surrounding mountains, along with maps, graphics and narrative will teach residents about the geology of their community and the region.

An interconnected system of incline stairs and rock scrambles at Brothers 2 & 3 challenges people to summit each mesa as a combined fitness circuit.

LEGEND

-  Potential Detention
-  Modified Channel
-  Natural Preservation Channel

Enhanced Natural Drainageways

- Preserve existing vegetation and topography whenever possible
- Use check dams and drop structures to slow flows to minimize channel erosion and encourage infiltration
- Use weirs to direct flows from channel to infiltration and detention basins.
- Integrate infiltration and detention basins into neighborhood parks
- Incorporate on-line infiltration and detention basins at road and trail crossings
- Use sheet flow and curb cuts to allow water to flow directly into adjacent landscape areas wherever feasible

Modified Drainageways

- Integrate open channel drainage into neighborhood designs where feasible, to minimize structured stormwater improvements
- Use small pocket parks for integrated infiltration and detention
- Include shade trees in infiltration and detention basin design
- Use sheet flow and curb cuts to allow water to flow directly into adjacent landscape areas wherever feasible

Open Space and Trails

- Preserve the native landscape wherever possible
- Preserve and reuse topsoil for placement at disturbed landscape areas to restore the native landscape
- Amend soils as needed for improved plant performance at parks and other improved landscapes

Neighborhood and Home Design

- Encourage builders to include two 55-gallon rain barrels with each home for domestic rainwater capture.
- Encourage builders to meet Water Sense standards for home and site design
- Incorporate micro-infiltration basins into lot design where feasible, directing downspout water and sheet flow from drives to shade trees and other plantings
- Use latest technologies in irrigation design including submetering, separate meters or irrigation controllers to monitor landscape water demand
