21. General architectural description: This is a horizontally proportioned masonry building with a low pitched hipped roof. The 'U' shaped plan has asymmetrical legs; the main ridge runs north/south and the 'U' is open to the street. The primary façade faces west. The north end of the 'U' has the longer leg, and a pair of casement style windows centered on the west wall. The south leg has a pair of casements on the south corner. The courtyard has a door on each side wall, in the corner of the ell. The main courtyard wall has a pair of casements on the north end and a large pair of casements near the center of the wall. The south side has a pair of casements at the west corner and another pair along the wall length. A brick chimney sits on the rear slope of the main roof near the ridge.
22. Architectural style/building type: Ranch Type
23. Landscaping or special setting features: A few shrubs front the building, a tree is near the center of the yard and a large street tree sits at the edge. A driveway runs along the south side.
24. Associated buildings, features, or objects: A low pitched gable garage is located at the rear of the site.

VI. Significance

37. Local landmark designation: Yes No Date of designation: _____
Designating authority: _____
38. Applicable National Register Criteria:
 A. Associated with events that have made a significant contribution to the broad pattern of our history;
 B. Associated with the lives of persons significant in our past;
 C. Embodies the distinctive characteristics of a type, period, or method of construction, or represents the work of a master, or that possess high artistic values, or represents a significant and distinguishable entity whose components may lack individual distinction; or
 D. Has yielded, or may be likely to yield, information important in history or prehistory.
 Qualifies under Criteria Considerations A through G (see Manual)
 Does not meet any of the above National Register criteria
39. Area(s) of significance: Architecture, Community Development and Planning
40. Period of significance: 1949; 1943 to 1957 Uranium Boom
41. Level of significance: National State Local
42. Statement of significance: The development in this area is a direct result of the nation's involvement in WWII and the drive for the development of nuclear weapons. The discovery of significant sources of Uranium in the region initiated development in Grand Junction that supported both the mining of the materials and the administration of programs related to the development of weapons. The building types, materials and neighborhood layout are all indicative of the national trends which were driven by the proliferation of the automobile and the enormous demand for single family homes.

House designs departed from the romantic and revival styles that were prevalent in the earlier part of the 20th century and took on a California inspired design that was characterized by simple horizontally proportioned forms. Houses were typically mass produced on previously undeveloped tracts of land at the periphery of earlier development. These groups of houses were typically based on one or two plan types with a limited number of roof and exterior finish variations, further reinforcing the characteristics of mass production. In this particular subdivision there are examples of both repetitive house types and more high style individualized houses. The curvilinear street layout is characteristic of national planning trends and is unusual in this community, where new development tended to extend the existing street grid. This multi-family building is characteristically located on the edge of the development adjacent to a traditionally arterial street.

43. Assessment of historic physical integrity related to significance: Window replacement has impacted an important feature of the original building. Integrity is moderately compromised. Window units have been replaced, but the opening sizes and pattern are intact. The house continues to contribute to the character of the neighborhood.

VII. National Register Eligibility Assessment

44. National Register eligibility field assessment:

Eligible Not Eligible Need Data

45. Is there National Register district potential? Yes No

Discuss: The Bookcliff Park Subdivision lies on the periphery of the historic city center and was originally established by single group of investors. The sites were built out to accommodate the rapid growth associated with the Uranium Boom over a short period of time. The architectural styles present in the area represent a significant concentration and continuity of dwellings and a subtle transition of styles over the building period. Few intrusions have been made into the original neighborhood and it retains a high level of integrity.

If there is National Register district potential, is this building: Contributing

Noncontributing

46. If the building is in existing National Register district, is it:
