ARCHITECTURAL DESCRIPTION: One story with flat roof. The 7th Street elevation has a shallow recessed bay in the center two-thirds. Formerly the entry, it is now walled with brown brick with a maroon vinyl canopy. Two single light windows in the brick wall have brick rowlock sills. The White Avenue elevation has five bays, divided by full-height pilasters. The three bays each have a large glass block window with 91 blocks, with no surrounds. Center bay has the entry. Door is metal frame with a full light and push bars, with a maroon vinyl canopy overhead. The fifth bay has a large single light window in a metal frame. By the west corner of that elevation is an unused metal frame door with a full light and push bars. Glass block windows on the west and north elevations. The walls are light buff stucco. The flat roof has an even parapet. Near the top of the parapet are visor roofs on the north and south elevations. The visors have two courses of red Spanish tiles.

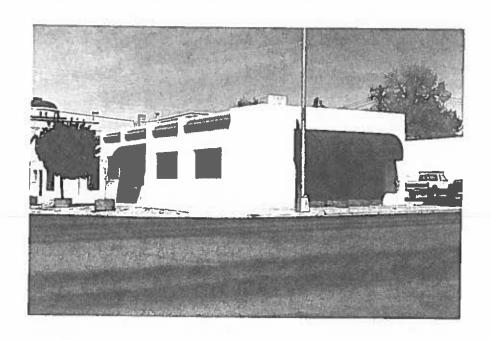

Red gravel is on the parking. A Shademaster honey locust, and two small red leaf trees are in red concrete planters.
