SECTION 3.0: SPECIFICATIONS/SCOPE OF SERVICES

3.1 General: The City of Grand Junction, Colorado (City) is seeking proposals from qualified firms to conduct a study of Development Impact Fees. Grand Junction is the most populous municipality in Western Colorado and is the county seat of Mesa County, Colorado. It is located midway between Denver and Salt Lake City and serves as a major commercial and transportation hub. The City has an estimated population of over 61,000 with a total area of 39.64 square miles. The population density is over 1,575 people per square mile. The 2010 census reflected a growth of almost 40% over the previous census and the State Demographer currently projects a 1.3% growth rate over the next ten years.

In 2000, City Council adopted Resolution 26-00 establishing development fees which included a Parks Impact Fee and Open Space Fee or dedication. Four years later, in 2004, the City adopted transportation impact fees. Those fees, and the collection process, have been codified in the City's Zoning and Development Code. The City also collects plant investment fees for its water treatment plant as well as its wastewater treatment plant. In addition, the Trunk Line Extension Policy enables the City to recover costs to extend the wastewater system to serve new developments. The Persigo (wastewater) System Trunk Extension Fund (TEF) was established by the Joint Board in 1993 under Resolution No. 47-93. This resolution sets guidelines that allow the Persigo Sewer System to participate in extension of Trunk sewer lines. Water impact fees have not changed since prior to 1995 while sewer impact fees have been updated regularly. Some City services such as sewer, fire, emergency medical, and recreation management services are also provided to areas outside City limits including Mesa County and the Town of Palisade.

The City adopted a Comprehensive Plan in 2005 and updated it in 2010. The Comprehensive Plan calls for nodal growth and provides certain Goals, Policies and assumptions for development of the City and the Grand Valley community. The Comprehensive Plan can be viewed by clicking on the following link: <http://www.codepublishing.com/CO/GrandJunction/?html3/GrandJunction31/GrandJunction31.html>.

3.2 Scope of Work: The City is soliciting proposals for the analysis and development of a comprehensive impact fee program to address future development. The City is interested in conducting a nexus study for impact fees for the following capital programs.

- Utility services, including water and sewer (Plant Investment Fees and Trunk Extension Fund)
- Parks and trails, including open space
- Police
- Fire and Emergency Medical services

Community engagement will be part of the study process as will presentation(s) to City elected and appointed officials. It is anticipated the fees will be considered for adoption no later than the end of first quarter 2019. Transportation will not be part of this study as there is a current study underway by the Grand Valley Metropolitan Planning Organization being conducted by Duncan Associates. Growth projections and other assumptions of this nexus study should be similar to the assumptions made with the currently underway Duncan Associates transportation impact fee study.

The selected Offeror will provide consideration and recommendations regarding:

- Necessary public facilities and improvements needed for future development
- An overview of impact fee and alternative revenue programs in similar cities
- A description of the methodology used to determine fees
- Implementation of fees, including process for providing credits and/or reimbursement
- Recommended Impact Fees schedule
- Draft ordinance for adoption

This fee study is intended to provide the Planning Commission, City Council, staff and community a thorough review of costs associated with providing necessary capital improvements to serve new growth.

The final work product(s) will include a comprehensive fee study for each category with a draft ordinance for the City to consider implementing. The information should clearly identify the methodology used to calculate fees, as well as the process for proving credits and/or reimbursements for land dedication and infrastructure construction completed by a new development
